Panto dames help light up town centre

THE lights of Christmas brought a sparkle to Harlow town centre this week when two of the stars of this year's Playhouse panto joined council chairman Ian Beckett to turn on the illuminations.

After a four-day delay caused by bad weather, the lights along Broad Walk, Harvey Centre Approach and Market Square – as well as those on the 30ft high Christmas tree – were switched on.

Joining Cllr Beckett and panto dames Antony Stuart-Hicks and Paul Leno, who will be playing the Ugly Sisters in Cinderella, were Cassie Wilson from Places For People and James Bacon from Courtenay Investments.

Both Places for People and Courtenay Investments contributed £3,000 towards the costs of the lights, while the Harvey Centre chipped in with £1,500 and Harlow Council £6,000. A further £117 came from individual donations following a crowdfunding appeal.

The Water Gardens will be turning on its Christmas lights at 5pm on Saturday. There will be live music and acts from midday.

Police: Gun offences in Harlow 'very rare'

A SENIOR police officer has sought to calm public fears after two incidents involving firearms in Harlow in two days.

Inspector Andy Fusher said offences involving guns in the town were "very rare".

He was speaking after police officers were sent to the Staple Tye shopping parade last Tuesday in response to reports that a man had produced a firearm during an argument with another person.

A 22-year-old man was detained and subsequently charged with firearms offences. He appeared before magistrates on Friday and was released on bail to appear at Chelmsford

Crown Court in February.

Then on Thursday armed officers were called to a second incident in Old Harlow after reports of a man being seen with a handgun in Mulberry Green. A man was arrested at an address nearby and has since been released on police bail until December 15.

Inspector Fusher, pictured right, said: "The incidents are not linked but unfortunately happened around the same time of each other. These offences are very rare in Harlow.

"Whenever we get a report of a firearm it is always treated very seriously. With emergency incidents, calls are immediately dispatched once we have information from the call takers, who dispatch local officers.

"If there is a need to bring in a firearms response team, that will be authorised by a senior officer. There is always a senior officer on duty."

Robbers threaten cashier with crowbar during raid on bookies

TWO crowbar-wielding robbers threatened a cashier at a Harlow betting shop before stealing cash from a safe.

The men dragged the terrified employee to the back of Jennings Bookmakers, in Prentice Place, and forced her to open a safe.

They then stole a three-figure sum before making their escape. The woman was treated at the scene by paramedics.

This week police stepped up patrols around other betting shops in the area and appealed for witnesses to the raid, which took place at 8.40pm on Monday, to contact them.

Detective Chief Inspector Paul Maleary said: "An extensive inquiry has begun to identify the men responsible and I would urge anyone who does have information to contact us as soon as possible.

"In the meantime I have authorised increased patrols around bookmakers in the district as a deterrent to other offenders as well as to reassure residents."

Both robbers had covered their faces. The one holding the crowbar is described as 6ft tall and believed to be in his late 20s while his accomplice was shorter at about 5ft 8ins tall and also younger.

Detectives want anyone who was in the Potter Street area around the time of the robbery to contact them at Harlow CID on 101 or call Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Gun crime 'very rare' in Harlow

bourhood inspector earlier this year, said that the force wanted people to report all crimes.

"We never mind a phone call from somebody saying something is happening in their area and they are concerned," he said. "We are pushing people to report crime and trying to get residents to come in and report crime to us."

"We need people to report incidents to us, we will listen and we will take it seriously."

He added: "Fear of crime outweighs reported crime but crime, generally, is going down. These two incidents are a rare occurrence."

Inspector Fusher said that as part of an Essex-wide initiative announced by police and crimm commissioner Nick Alston, officer in Harlow were "getting back to the heart of the community".

As well as encouraging residents to report crime, the aim is to give the public the opportunity to question officers at regular community meetings and street meets.

Watchdog flags up 'high risk' surgeries

A HEALTH watchdog has warned that two GP surgeries in Harlow could be putting patients at risk.

The Care Quality Commission has identified 1,200 practices in England which may not be providing safe care, including 864 it has categorised as of highest concern.

Failings include too few practice nurses, too few older patients receiving the winter flu jab and making patients wait too long for appointments.

The inspector gave the bottom mark of Band 1 - 'highest concern' - to both Addison House Surgery in Hamstel Road and Church Langley Medical Centre in Church Langley Way.

The CQC made its judgements after evaluating each surgery against 38 indicators designed to highlight whether patients could be at "risk" or "elevated risk" above and beyond what would normally be expected.

The poorly performing surgeries will be prioritised for vigorous, day-long spot checks over the next two years which could lead to the worst being closed down.

GEMMA GARDNER

gemma.gardner@hertsessexnews.co.uk

The surgeries have been placed into one of six categories ranging from 'highest concern' to 'lowest concern'.

Lister Medical Centre in Staple Tye, Nuffield House Doctors Surgery in The Stow and Barbara Castle Health Centre in Sumners were all placed into the 'lowest concern' category.

At Addison House Surgery the percentage of patients with diabetes, who were given a test that measures their risk of developing kidney disease was highlighted as one potential risk, while at Church Langley Medical Centre the dementia diagnosis rate was flagged up.

CQC chief inspector Professor Steve Field said most surgeries were managing to provide good care despite high demand, but added: "We're sadly finding some very poor practices."

"These typically are chaotic, have very poor leadership and a lack of learning culture. They also have a poor skill mix - some don't have any nurses."

"Patients could be at risk by simple things such as by prescribing out-of-date medicines and vaccines."

One patient, who attends Church Langley Medical Centre in Church Langley Way said: "We've had so many problems with the surgery. There's clearly not enough doctors there."

"It has been a bottleneck since the Potter Street surgery closed down and compounded by the ever-expanding New Hall."

"It basically puts unnecessary pressure on the hospital because, if you can't wait four weeks to see the doctor, that's your only option if you're in pain and need treatment."

"The wait to see a doctor is shameful for a western country and one of the richest in the developed world. It's absolutely shocking."

Patients can check their surgery's rating by going to www.cqc.org.uk/content/our-intelligent-monitoring-gp-practices and inserting their postcode.

READERS LETTERS

Weasel words will not solve Traveller problem

SIR I am sick of seeing the Travellers encampments used by our MP as a political campaigning issue.

His petition asking local residents to support his call for the authorities to take action is worthless and he knows it.

Because of the total lack of sites that can be used legally anywhere in Essex, or anywhere else for that matter, the powers available to the authorities are limited and expensive.

The obligation is on Essex County Council to pressure other local councils to provide the transit sites that are necessary.

If there are legal alternatives available in the county, the Travellers could be compelled to leave and could not return for at least three months. If they did they would be committing a criminal offence and heavy fines or a prison sentence would result.

It's not posturing we need but strong political pressure on the Government and Essex County Council to comply with their obligations.

I am sick of seeing our town being desecrated by Travellers and by the measures having to be taken to try to protect our green spaces.

We need strong action from our paid Westminster representative, not weasel words.

Norman Knight
Pynest Road, Harlow

MP is diverting attention from Government policy

SIR I am getting more than a little sick of the continuing attempts of Harlow MP Robert Halfon to scapegoat Travellers and thereby divert attention from the effects of the policies of the government he supports.

A responsible politician would try to reduce conflict and promote integration by campaigning for an increase in legal sites for Travellers instead of fanning the flames of xenophobia.

It was not the Travellers who inflicted the massive cuts in council tax relief that have resulted in 1,800 of the poorest householders in Harlow being taken to court for non-payment of council tax for the financial year 2013-14. And it was not the Travellers who imposed the bedroom tax that has penalised 800 local tenants.

Mr Halfon voted for both these measures. He ought to be ashamed that poor people across the town are living in fear of a visit from the bailiffs thanks to him and his cronies.

He would rather money be spent on waging war in the Middle East than on social security or easing inter-communal tensions. Last year he voted to bomb the secular regime of Syrian president Bashar al-Assad; this year he voted to bomb Assad's Islamist opponents, ISIS/Islamic State.

David Cameron claims that the latter presents an "existential threat" to Britain. However, ISIS was not responsible for the greatest decline in the real value of wages since the 1860s and the sadistic cuts in social security provision that have driven working class people in this country to desperation, madness and suicide.

This week's photo was taken by Stephen Morton, of Carters Mead, Harlow. "It was taken on a walk with the Harlow Sunday Walkers group near to Harlow Tye," he writes. "The sheep's hat gets changed a lot but this was it's Remembrance Sunday hat."

If you have taken a photo which you would like to feature in our Photo of the Week section, email a high resolution copy in JPEG format, along with a description of your photo and details of when and where it was taken to star@hertsessexnews.co.uk. Include your name and address and insert 'Photo of the Week' in the subject line.

Those honours go to the Conservatives and their Liberal Democrat allies. No amount of Traveller-bashing can obscure that reality.

Harlow needs a diverse and thriving town centre

SIR I agree wholeheartedly with John and Susan Booth (Letters, November 6) that councillors were right to turn down Marks & Spencer's store plan for the Queensgate retail park.

It seems incredible to me that M&S, with a prime position in the busy shopping centre of a town with a population of close on 85,000 people, cannot make a success of it.

Perhaps one of the reasons is that in the 30-odd years since it opened, M&S has not made a single improvement to its store in an effort to keep it abreast of its competitors.

What makes it worse is that the management, such as it is, then have the gall to blame the people of Harlow for shopping at out-of-town locations such as Brent Cross.

Their answer? To vacate the prime position they haven't the wit to capitalise on for a site on the outskirts of town accessible only to those with private transport. This would be another nail in the retail coffin that is town centre north.

Now that the council has rightly denied them this option, M&S are threatening to take away their ball.

It is one thing to understand and facilitate the legitimate needs of big business but quite another thing to be in their pockets and pander to bad management.

The needs of the town must come first. To ensure a bright future, Harlow needs a diverse and thriving town centre.

If only their benighted management (and Robert Halfon) could envision it, an improved M&S store of some kind in the town centre would be to the benefit of all.

Emissions from ageing buses a threat to health

SIR In an age of clean air and green campaigns etc, how can Harlow Council/Essex County Council allow buses to operate on the streets of the town that are antiquated, not fuel efficient and a danger to health due to their emissions?

I would suggest these vehicles do not meet the current guidelines for low emissions. You only have to be at the rear of one of these buses to work that out.

Not only are our roads poorly maintained, we have to tolerate unsightly 20-year-old plus vehicles chucking out carbon monoxide by the bucketload.

John Higgitt

Let's be realistic about tackling traffic chaos

SIR Many letters have been published in the Star about the daily traffic chaos in Harlow.

It's terrible for business and the general mood of residents and people passing through, but what gets done? Nothing.

Gordon Chase was correct in his letter ("Government must pay the cost of a northern bypass", November 13). We need to bombard Essex County Council with emails and then maybe they'll start to listen if lots of people get involved? Let's revolt!

So many good points have been made on this letters page – the wasted space of the bus lanes and the absurd amount of traffic lights, the fact that when some traffic lights don't work there's no traffic jams; the many pedestrian traffic lights right next to roundabouts. It's obvious stuff that could get sorted out with strong leadership.

It's obviously the whole Labour way of thinking that everyone should use public transport or bikes but that's not going to happen.

Changes so clearly need to be made. The northern bypass is a solution that keeps getting brought up. Like someone mentioned a few weeks ago, this would cost millions upon millions and there is no chance of it happening. The county councillor responsible for highways even said that.

So let's do what is more realistic.

M. Graves
Chippingfield, Old Harlow

What is to become of old Passmores School site?

SIR I wonder if, when council officers gaze out of the third floor windows of the Civic Centre, their gaze fall upon the forlorn sight of the former Passmores School across the Toddbrook valley? If so, what can they be thinking?

Do they dream of building hundreds of houses there but dare not go beyond dreaming due to the site being within a green wedge? Or do they envisage that the abandoned playing fields and former all-weather hockey pitch could make an excellent location for a local sports club looking for a new home? After all, who could object to such a scheme – even with a clubhouse and parking on the site of the former Westfield school next door.

Even if such a dream entered their minds it would require the full co-operation of the county council, which administers this land on our behalf. And that is probably a dream too far.

The reality of course is that the county council in its wisdom decided that the two existing schools – Passmores and Brays Grove – were no longer fit for purpose. So, one perfectly good building (Brays Grove) was demolished and a new school was built on the site.

Now the old Passmores stands all forlorn. How can this be justified? There must have been a business plan in order for all that money to have been spent.

Demolish old school, build new school, abandon another school and its grounds. What is the plan?

Help Nishall to celebrate good things of town

COLLEGE student Nishall Garala is hoping to change people's perception of the town by launching a social media campaign to help #BigUpHarlow.

The teenager will be promoting the good work of people in the town via Twitter using the hashtag #BigUpHarlow. He has also set up the account @BigUpHarlow.

Nishall has been a member of Harlow Youth Council since 2009 and is passionate about the community he lives in.

"There is so much good going on in the town and I think people need to know about it."

Nishall, who is also police youth ambassador leader and vice-chairman of Waterhouse Moor Residents' Association, started the campaign last week and has already gathered support from Harlow Chamber of Commerce, Harlow MP

Robert Halfon and Harlow Council chairman Ian Beckett.

Nishall explained: "There are lots of people in Harlow doing great work in the community, and not for money, these are the people we need to talk about."

Nishall, who is also a student governor at Harlow College, said that giving back the community is something that makes him happy.

"One of the biggest things I have done is being willing to be a volunteer in anything that benefits others," he said.

Nishall, who is hoping to study business at King's College London, said: "Tweet using the hashtag #BigUpHarlow for things about Harlow you are proud and happy about."

"We need to tell the world about the grandness of Harlow."

Inquiry to probe claims of intimidation in fire service

CLAIMS that a "culture of intimidation" exists within the county's fire service are to be investigated.

Essex Fire Authority chairman Anthony Hedley announced it had commissioned a wide-ranging independent inquiry into reports of an intimidatory culture within Essex County Fire and Rescue Service.

"Terms of reference are still to be drawn up but it will focus on the impact the culture has on staff relationships at all levels," said Cllr Hedley. "It is hoped all relevant parties will support the inquiry."

The EFA said it had taken the decision following a number of incidents which had threatened the reputation of the authority and the service and which were brought to its attention in a confidential report by Acting Chief Fire Officer Adam Eckley.

He added the inquiry would not examine the actions of individuals who are currently the subject of criminal proceedings concerning allegations of misconduct at the former Tilbury Fire Station between 1987 and 1998.

Problem with a gas main to blame for business unit blaze

A FIRE at a business unit in Harlow was started by a problem with a gas main, an investigation has revealed.

Crews from Harlow, Old Harlow and Sawbridgeworth were sent to tackle the fire in the building at the St James Centre in East Road on Friday afternoon.

When they arrived they reported that 30 per cent of the building, which measures 20 metres by 20 metres, was engulfed in flames.

An aerial ladder platform was sent from Chelmsford to help them extinguish the fire.

Once the fire was out two thermal imaging cameras were used to check for hotspots before crews left the site.

Council told it can use force to move group of Travellers

HARLOW Council has been given the green light by a court to use force if necessary to disperse a group of Travellers who have already been evicted six times in the past year.

In the latest move magistrates at Chelmsford authorised the council, if necessary, to forcibly evict the group who are currently encamped on a site in Horsecroft Road.

James Hutchon, appearing on behalf of the council, told the court that business owners on the nearby industrial estate had complained because their customers and clients were "unable or unwilling" to visit because of the Travellers.

He said there was no suggestion the Travellers were responsible for any form of intimidation other than by their presence.

But he added: "This group has moved around the Harlow area for over a year now and we have had to come to court seven times in a year."

Mr Hutchon said "persons unknown" would be given 24 hours after the order was served on them by lunchtime yesterday (Wednesday) before any enforcement action was taken.

He continued: "This group is known to wait until the order has been made and then move on. Sometimes it's on to private land and sometimes on to other Harlow District Council land."

Man told girl, 13, to send him indecent pictures of herself

RICKY GOWARD-WHITE

A FATHER who asked a 13-year-old girl to take indecent photos of herself on her mobile phone and send them to him has been jailed for four years.

A judge at Chelmsford Crown Court said Ricky Goward-White, 25, of Long Banks, Harlow, had played a part in the corruption of the girl, who the prosecution said had befriended scores of men with whom she was "sexting".

Kate Davey, prosecuting, gave details of a police investigation into the activities that took place between the girl, who lives in Scotland, and a string of men. "Two hundred cases arise from it," she said.

The court was told Goward-White was not connected to any of the other cases.

Ms Davey said that when police were first alerted by the girl's mother, who was concerned that her daughter was contacting strangers over the internet, they launched an investigation which led them to find Goward-White's address.

The phone he used was registered in his wife's name but he accepted he had

star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

contacted the girl and he was arrested in April 2013.

Of 31 indecent images of young girls aged 12-14 stored on the phone, all but four were of the Scottish girl.

Ms Davey said Goward-White had pretended he was younger than he was and had exchanged images with the girl, going into his car to take pictures of himself for more privacy.

The messages between them, which included him asking for pictures, ran into three figures.

The court heard that he had urged her to take photos, saying: "If you love me you will do this."

Goward-White pleaded guilty to two offences of inciting the girl to engage in sexual activity between June 20 and July 27, 2012 and to one offence of possessing indecent images of her.

Clare Dowse, representing him, said in mitigation: "The girl was in contact with a large number of men but he was not linked to any of those men in any way. He is not part of any group."

Passing sentence, judge Anthony Goldstaub commented on the girl's own activities, adding: "She is a girl who, by the sound of it, could fill a prison on her own." But he said what Goward-White had done was morally and personally degrading to the child.

"You corrupted her to some extent, although I appreciate she was a child who appeared to engage in communications with many other men as well as yourself," he added. "But you played your part in her corruption."

He said the girl would grow up in the knowledge that pictures of her may surface on the internet at any time.

Goward-White was ordered to sign the sex offenders' register indefinitely and the judge made a sexual offences prevention order for seven years which will limit and monitor his access to underage children and the internet.

Leisurezone to host exhibition on the Cold War

A TOURING exhibition which explores the background to one of the more ideological and political conflicts of the 20th century is coming to Harlow.

The Cold War dominated international relations between the East and West for decades and the exhibition tells the story from the end of the Second World War to the fall of the Berlin Wall 25 years ago.

Among the exhibits from collections around the east of England will be items from the secret nuclear bunker at Kelvedon Hatch.

The exhibition, which opens at The Time Machine gallery in Harlow Leisurezone on November 29 and runs until January 20, will also include items from private collectors including an original artwork by Romanian cartoonist Mihai Stancescu as well as music and literature inspired by the Cold War.

There will also be a reading corner for people eager to delve into spy stories of the time.

The exhibition is the fourth in a series produced by Epping Forest District Museum and funded by Arts Council England.

Police release e-fit of Felmongers flasher

POLICE have released this e-fit image of a man who indecently exposed himself to a woman in Harlow.

The suspect is described as being aged in his 20s, clean shaven and wearing a black jacket and black trousers.

The incident happened in Felmongers at about 9.45am on Friday, October 31.

Anyone who recognises the man is asked to contact PC Greg Marshal on 101.

Man's jaw broken in incident outside club

A MAN was treated in hospital for a broken jaw in what police are describing as an "incident" outside a nightclub in Harlow town centre.

The victim, who is in his 20s and from the Epping area, was injured outside the premises of CM20 in Post Office Walk in the early hours of Sunday.

He was taken to Princess Alexandra Hospital.

Officers are now appealing for information to establish how he sustained the injury. Witnesses are asked to contact Detective Constable Ryan Burgess on 101.

Food firm set for Tesco site

A COMPANY which distributes food to the catering industry is to move to the former Tesco warehouse site at Flex Meadow in Harlow.

Brakes, which supplies food to pubs, restaurants, hotels, workplaces, educational establishments and healthcare facilities, will close its depots in Bishop's Stortford and Chelmsford and transfer operations to Harlow.

The company said that it was unable to say how many staff at the two depots would be affected by the decision until it had entered into consultations with them.

The company said that it was going through a "business transformation process" to meet customer service needs.

A spokesman said: "A significant part of this transformation is a move to a multi-temperature distribution network, with sufficient network capacity on a national and regional basis to support our growth plans, a large part of which we expect to come from the south east."

Hundreds of jobs were lost at the site when Tesco announced last year it was closing the distribution centre and relocating operations to a new depot at Dagenham, sparking angry protest from

workers.

The matter was raised in Parliament when Harlow MP Robert Halfon secured a debate in the House of Commons.

Brakes said the site would be altered to create a regional distribution centre, adding the move represented a "significant" investment in its distribution network.

This week Councillor Tony Durcan, Harlow Council's portfolio holder for regeneration and enterprise, said: "It is very good news that a major food distribution company not only wants to relocate to Harlow but also grow and expand its operations."

"Along with the recent opening of the Poundland distribution centre this is an encouraging development for Harlow, especially when the community was hit so hard when the Tesco distribution centre closed last year."

"The council is looking forward to working with the Brakes Group and exploring what opportunities an expanding and growing business can bring for the local community."

The memories that mean so much to marathon man Paul

AN amateur runner who donated bone marrow to a leukaemia patient seven years ago will take on his third marathon to raise money for charity.

Paul Falco, 44, of Old Road, Old Harlow, first donated marrow to leukaemia patient David Smirthwaite in 2007.

The following year he made a second donation of his blood lymphocyte cells. Sadly, David died in 2011.

Paul and David met after a two-year confidentiality period.

"Everything went great at first," said Paul, who will be running the Florence Marathon on November 30. "David still had to deal with a great number of challenge, but he had made amazing progress."

"Meeting David was special, it was like meeting someone famous that you had admired and loved from afar and now you were going to be sitting and talking with them."

"I thought he would fully recover and we would be friends forever and share family memories. I still wish for that now."

"Even knowing what I know now, I would do it again in a heartbeat. Donating helped make me a better person."

Paul said it was the memory of David that helped him complete his first two marathons in Amsterdam and Berlin.

"I talk to him, tell him to push me through with some of the later miles which are very tough," he said.

So far Paul has raised £1,518.75 for the Anthony Nolan charity, formerly the Anthony Nolan Trust. It matches individuals willing to donate blood, stem cells or bone marrow to those with blood cancer and blood disorders who need lifesaving transplants.

and said he was overwhelmed by people's generosity.

"I have seen the difference it can make to someone's life so I looked around to see if there was another marathon in Europe before the end of the year," said Paul.

"Three European marathons in eight weeks sounded like a challenge, something that I was not sure I would be capable of.

Knowing why I am doing it gave me no excuses of short cutting the training or quitting in the marathons."

Group marks 50 years of Wings support

MEMBERS of the Harlow branch of the Royal Air Force Association have marked 50 years of supporting the RAFA Wings Appeal.

The national campaign raises money to help ex-RAF men and women, those currently serving and their dependants with whatever help they need, be it medical, financial or general advice.

The Harlow branch has been collecting and fundraising for the Wings Appeal with bucket collections and other events.

Joan Simmons, of the Harlow RAF Association, has spearheaded the fundraising for the group for the past 11 years.

Money raised for the Wings Appeal helps RAFA run three respite care homes, six holiday chalets, furnished 'contact houses', and internet cafes for families to stay in touch with servicemen and women serving abroad.

Groups appeal for volunteers to help

HELP is needed for a number of organisations across Harlow.

Cards for Good Causes, which offer a range of charity Christmas cards for sale, is looking for volunteers to join their team at Harlow Central Library.

Those willing to help do not need previous experience, and can find out more at The Volunteer Centre in Wych Elm.

Caring for Harlow Carers run a social group for people of all ages who enjoy puzzles, word searches and other activities.

They are looking for a volunteer who can organise these activities.

A spokesman at Caring for Harlow Carers said: "The group is very sociable and enjoys a chat and a laugh and they don't take themselves too seriously."

The Harlow branch of the Alzheimer's Society wants volunteers to join the work supporting people with early onset dementia. The group meet every Friday and take part in various activities within Harlow.

There are also opportunities at The British Red Cross in Harlow. They are looking for volunteer drivers, who can help deliver aids and adaptations to people around the region.

For more information about any of the positions available, contact Della Nash at The Volunteer Centre Harlow on (01279) 308310, email dellanash@volunteercentreharlow.org.uk or visit www.volunteercentreharlow.org.uk.

Santa to drop in at Lions Club fair

HARLOW Lions Club is hosting a Victorian Christmas Fair to raise money for elderly and vulnerable residents.

All the money raised from the fair will be used to make festive hampers for Harlow's elderly residents.

There will be a variety of stalls at the annual event, which is in its third year, and Santa will be popping in to greet younger visitors.

Six members of the organisation's twin club, Ottersberg Lions Club in Germany, will be preparing mulled wine with traditional spice biscuits.

There will be a grand draw, with a first prize of £250.

The fair will be held at St John's Arc in Old Harlow from 11am-4pm on Sunday, November 23.

Decorate the tree with paper doves

PAPER doves can now be purchased to decorate the Christmas tree in Market Square, Harlow.

For a small donation to the Citizens Advice Bureau residents can buy a paper dove and write a festive message or remember the name of a loved one. The doves will then be attached to the tree.

The suggested donation is £1 but residents can pay either more or less.

All the money raised will go towards a new information area within the Citizens Advice Bureau in West Gate. The area will give residents access to information through a laptop.

Volunteers will be selling the doves by the flag poles in Market Square on Saturday, December 6, December 13 and December 20 between 10am-4pm.

Lottery winner

THE winner of the £1,000 first prize in the St Clare Hospice weekly lottery drawn on Friday, November 14 was the holder of ticket number 196817. The winner lives in Stansted.

The rollover prize was not won and will go forward to tomorrow's (Friday) draw when the prize will be £1,400.

MP to survey residents for diagnosis of state of town's health services

HARLOW MP Robert Halfon will use the results of a survey of residents' views on NHS services in the town to press for improvements where they are needed.

Mr Halfon plans to deliver copies of the survey, which has a freepost reply, to 35,000 households across the town.

It asks those taking part to rate a number of NHS services, including the performance of Princess Alexandra Hospital, the East of England Ambulance Service and parking charges.

Mr Halfon will use the results to lobby the Government to upgrade whichever services residents highlight as needing improvement.

"I am keen to find out what residents like and do not like and specifically what improvements they would like to see made," he said.

"Over the past two years there has been £5.7m investment in the A&E unit at PAH, £1.5 m in a new dialysis unit and nearly £500,000 to St Clare Hospice. This investment has been reflected in the professionalism and hard work of consultants, doctors and nurses which has seen a 43 per cent decrease in complaints to PAH in the last year, and the number of compliments increasing dramatically.

"Waiting times continue to fall with 95 per cent of patients being seen within the four-hour A&E target."

Earlier this year, Mr Halfon ran a major campaign to cut the cost of what he branded "rip-off" parking charges at NHS hospitals which resulted in the Government issuing new guidelines.

Street lights to stay on in a 'seasonal gesture'

STREET lights will stay on in the early hours of Christmas Day and New Year's Day at a cost of £11,000.

Normally the lights are turned off between midnight and 5am but Essex County Council has decided to leave them on as a "seasonal gesture".

Councillor Rodney Bass, cabinet member for highways and transportation, said: "All street lights will remain on in the early hours, and for the rest of the night, on the mornings of Christmas Day and New Year's Day.

"This will enable the public to enjoy festive events including midnight mass and New Year's Eve parties."

However, Cllr Bass insisted there had been no change in the council's street lighting policy as there was no evidence of increased crime or road accidents since the introduction of part-night lighting.

LITTLE SAINTS NURSERY

KIDDI CARU NURSERY

Pulling in the pounds for Pudsey

SCHOOLS, businesses, shops, groups and individuals throughout Harlow joined in the fundraising effort for the BBC's Children in Need appeal.

On Friday a group of childcare students at Harlow College raised £464.46 by baking cakes and dressing up as superheroes – the theme of this year's appeal – for the day.

"The students had great fun and they really embraced the idea of being proactive and raising as much money as they could," said a college spokeswoman.

Children in Need mascot Pudsey Bear put in an appearance at various places around the town.

Pupils and teachers at Hare Street School welcomed him to their non-uniform day, which raised £500. Parent liaison teacher Matt Breavington said: "It is a fantastic achievement. The pupils were so keen to raise money and help other children."

Delivery business The Transporter, which regularly supports the town's charities, delivered a homemade Pudsey cake to staff and patients at Princess Alexandra Hospital's children's accident and emergency department.

The cake had been auctioned to the highest bidder by its creators – Shelly's Sweets and Treats – with proceeds going to the appeal.

Over at the Broad Walk branch of Greggs, staff armed themselves with collection buckets to support the company's national effort to raise as much money as possible for Children in Need. They were also visited by Pudsey who helped them collect donations from shoppers.

Youngsters at the Kiddi Caru day nursery, in Kiln Lane, dressed up as their favourite superheroes. Parents baked cakes to sell on the day and the nursery managed to raise more than £100 for the charity.

Nursery manager Anna Yeates said: "They are absolutely delighted to have raised over £100 for Children in Need whilst also having lots of fun in the process."

Tots at Little Saints Nursery in Old Harlow also dressed up as superheroes and parents visited for a Pudsey-themed craft afternoon.

View of Harlow as a 'young people's town'

ON FILM: Harlow market featured in the documentary which was first aired in 1982

A TELEVISION documentary made by the BBC about Harlow New Town and first broadcast in 1982 show the issues of 30 years ago are just as relevant today.

The programme – Changing Places: Nearly New Town (Harlow) – features interviews with the original town planner, community leaders and residents, as well as archival footage spanning four decades.

Conceived in 1946, the 'new town' of Harlow was destined to provide adequate futures for those residents of London heavily affected by the Blitz.

A central feature of this film, which can be viewed at the East Anglian Film Archive, is an interview with architect and town planner Frederick Gibberd, who begins by outlining the history of the plan to fit Harlow within the existing landscape, and provide a 'balanced town' to allow for the integration of all kinds of people, living in all kinds of houses.

Archival footage announces Harlow as a "young people's town", where children are free to play without risk of traffic, and where well-equipped and modern schools are closely related to their neighbourhoods.

It was also envisaged that Harlow would allow residents to live and work in the same area, with factories linked to residential zones by cycleways free from motor traffic.

Archival vox pops suggest that it

Photograph stirs memories of Cossor employees

A PHOTOGRAPH of long-serving Cossor employees prompted readers to get in touch.

Those photographed had clocked up either 25 or 30 years with the Harlow company.

Victor McCarthy, who now lives in Cambridgeshire, got in touch after reading his name in the article.

"I am still in touch with members of the Cossor retired staff club, mainly associate members and others who became members through Len Jerrett," he wrote in an email to the Star.

"Fred Brittan and I are the only ones mentioned in your article that attended.

"They were the good days at Cossor before the quarter century and social clubs were stopped by Raytheon who took over."

began with mixed success, and so this mixed success continued.

Current residents are interviewed, with a wide range of views about life in the town.

Many of the younger residents feel that there is not enough for them to do, and older residents complain about social problems on housing estates.

With Frederick Gibberd constantly defending his town, many community leaders are questioned about problems of spirituality, employment, and the adequacy of housing. The film concludes with Gibberd maintaining that he believes the town still works, as archival footage harks back to Harlow's happier beginnings.

'Stalker' fails in bid to overturn ban from town

A MAN who left a Harlow woman in terror after subjecting her to persistent harassment has been banned from entering the town.

Danny Humphries, 52, left his victim "terrified" after repeatedly hounding her in breach of an earlier court order barring him from contacting her.

Humphries, of Erdington in Birmingham, was jailed for eight months at Chelmsford Crown Court in May last year. He was convicted of harassment and breaching a suspended sentence order.

He was also served with a fresh restraining order which this time banned him from going within a mile of Harlow.

Three senior judges at London's Appeal Court have now ruled there were "no arguable grounds" for challenging that order.

COURT REPORTER

star@hertsexnews.co.uk

Judge Simon Tonking said the woman lived in fear of Humphries after he flouted a ban on contacting her on three separate occasions.

The judge who jailed him said his victim "needed a greater degree of protection" before forbidding Humphries from straying anywhere near Harlow.

Humphries argued that the ban was an unwarranted interference with his freedom to go wherever he likes.

But Judge Tonking, sitting with Mr Justice Cranston, said: "There are no arguable grounds or reason why this court should overturn that order."

"Accordingly, we refuse permission to appeal."

Students speak out about the need to vote

STUDENTS from Harlow College have launched a new campaign to persuade residents to vote.

Their 'Harlow Have Your Say' crusade has won the support of Labour parliamentary candidate Suzy Stride, who joined them for the launch, pictured above.

As part of the campaign they will be running a stall in the town centre and writing to businesses and community leaders.

Shannon Andrews, 16, said:

"It's really exciting to be part of a campaign which is the first of its kind in Harlow. We want to encourage first-time voters, both young and old, to have their say and get out and vote."

And Oonagh Lee, 17, added: "We know that people died to have the right to vote and in other countries people do not have the privilege of voting. With this in mind we want to encourage people across Harlow that voting matters."

Ms Stride said: "It's fantastic to see young people in Harlow really being passionate about encouraging people across Harlow to have their say and register to vote."

"This is not a party political campaign but a fantastic initiative by young people who want to make sure Harlow residents do not lose their voice."

Hospice to hold series of light up services to remember loved ones

ST Clare Hospice will be holding a Light Up A Life service in Harlow next month for people to remember their loved ones in the run-up to Christmas.

The service – which will take place at St Andrew's Church in The Stow at 6.30pm on Sunday, December 14 – is one of 11 St Clare will be holding around the area, including two at the hospice in Hastingwood.

All services will include readings and carol singing. At the hospice services the lights on a Christmas tree – each one representing the life and memory of someone who has passed away – will be switched on.

St Clare chief executive Tanya Curry added: "The opportunity to come together with others who understand is, we know, a source of comfort and strength for many."

"Our invitation is open to everyone who would like the opportunity to reflect and cherish fond memories at what can be a difficult time of year."

As well as the Harlow service others will take place in Loughton (4.30pm, November 29), Waltham Abbey (7pm, December 4), Epping (5.30pm, December 6), Buckhurst Hill (7pm, December 11), Ongar (4.15pm, December 11), Stansted (11am, December 14) and Great Dunmow (3.30pm, December 14). There will also be a service at Saffron Walden on February 15.

The two services at the hospice will take place on December 6 and 10 and will include fireworks.

To make a dedication for the tree at the hospice or to attend one of the two services there, call the fund-raising team on (01279) 773750 or visit www.stclarehospice.org.uk.

Store tops for breast cancer fundraising

STAFF at the Asda supermarket in Harlow staff had cause a reason to celebrate after being told their store was the top fundraiser in the country in support of the Tickled Pink breast cancer campaign.

And shoppers at the Water Gardens store have also raised £200 for the breast cancer clinical trials unit at Harlow's Princess Alexandra Hospital which was the winner of the store's green token scheme.

A cheque for the money was presented to associate breast surgeon Dr Ashraf

Rachel Forth, community life champion at the Harlow store, said: "The £200 the unit received from the Asda Foundation will go with the fundraising they were doing in store throughout October for Breast Cancer Awareness month.

"The unit makes a huge difference to our community in so many ways and it was great to support them with a little funding boost."

The Tickled Pink project raises funds for two charities – Breast Cancer Care and Breast Cancer Campaign.

"We are very proud to have been named the top fundraising Asda store in the country for Tickled Pink," said Rachel. "It is great to know that we are doing well in helping raise funds for two fantastic charities."

"We will be getting an award that will be displayed next to the community board on the shop floor. It's important that our customers are recognised for such an outstanding achievement for such a great cause."

Joy as owner is reunited with missing cat Marmie

A PET owner who completed a 50-mile walk from Kent to Harlow while wearing a Garfield onesie in her search for her cat has been reunited with the missing moggie.

Tracy Brewster, 52, spent the past three months looking for 13-year-old Marmie. She believed he may have been in the Harlow area and was asking residents to help her find him.

But on Tuesday Mrs Brewster, pictured right, announced on her Find Marmie Facebook page that the long-haired ginger cat had been found in Surrey.

"My baby has been found," she wrote. "He is in Surrey and I am going there now to pick him up."

"A kindly family took him in and although he is a little thin he is alive. I am overjoyed and in shock to get Marmie back! So emotional and overwhelmed."

Mrs Brewster's 50-mile trek began from home in Barming near Maidstone. She passed through Medway and then on to Tilbury, Brentwood and Chipping Ongar before arriving in Harlow.

Accompanied by friend Nicki Clark, she distributed more than 2,500 leaflets along the route and waved a 'Find Marmie' banner.

A Facebook group called Find Marmie received more than 3,000 likes while tweets about the campaign offering a £1,100 reward were supported by poet Pam Ayres, Made In Chelsea star Lucy Watson and a number of soap stars.

Chain gang in town for human trafficking demo

CAMPAIGNERS wearing bright red T-shirts created a human 'chain for change' and handed out leaflets in Harlow town centre to raise awareness of human trafficking and modern slavery.

Sheri Dias, from the Christian Revival Church London, said: "Many people were quite fascinated by the trail of red walking through the town centre and stopped us to ask questions. Many were totally unaware what human trafficking was or that it even existed."

She said ways of spotting victims included people working excessive hours, not being allowed to hold their own ID or travel documentation, being in poor health or with visible injuries and displaying submissive or fearful behaviour.

"Our aim is to hold these campaigns in our local boroughs and Harlow happens to be one of the boroughs where many of our church members live," she added.

"There have also been many cases of human trafficking in Essex and we thought Harlow would be a great central point to raise awareness."

Speakers in the business of motivation

HARLOW COLLEGE Business students had the chance to sit in on a series of motivational talks designed to help them realise their potential.

The event, hosted by WorkingOptions programme director Fiona Mack, featured a number of guest speakers including Peter Groves, general manager of The Good Whey Company; Rob Hattrell, Tesco's online channel director of general merchandise; Simon Belsham, managing director of Grocery Home Shopping, and James Brundle of Eat17.

They spoke to vocational and A-level business students about starting up and running a business.

Eamon O'Donnell, the college's senior tutor in vocational business, studies, said: "The event gave the students some really good ideas about the future careers they might want to go into."

Language students' trip to Berlin

ST MARK'S WEST ESSEX CATHOLIC SCHOOL

Students and staff visited some of Berlin's best-known monuments during a visit to the city.

The trip is an annual event organised by the Tripton Road school's modern foreign language department as part of the timetable for pupils studying languages at GCSE or A-level.

More than 30 students spent the start of their half-term in the German capital and had the opportunity to visit a number of landmarks including the Brandenburg Gate, the Holocaust Memorial and Frederick the Great's palaces in Potsdam.

Other highlights of the trip included a high-speed lift ride up east Berlin's TV tower and a late-night stroll around the glass dome of the Reichstag.

Afterwards, Year 13 pupil James Nugent said: "It honestly is the best trip I've been on with the school."

"I learned a lot about German history and really enjoyed speaking with the locals and practicing my German."

Jemma Stroud, from Year 11, added: "I loved the trip because we got time to discover the city for ourselves. It was a really good experience."

Fun and games at anniversary party

KIDDI CARU DAY NURSERY

Youngsters and staff at the Kiln Lane nursery held a party to celebrate its 10th birthday.

Some of the first children to attend Kiddi Caru nearly a decade ago also turned up to celebrate the anniversary, as did Harlow MP Robert Halfon.

Photos of the nursery taken over the past 10 years – from when it was first built to this year's garden makeover – were on display and there was a chance for guests to join the tots in traditional party games including pass the parcel and musical bumps.

Nursery manager Jennie Gregory said: "We were so excited to welcome Mr Halfon to our celebration as well as some of the first children who attended the nursery. It was amazing to see how they have changed over the years.

"Of course they found that the nursery has changed, too. We didn't have computers or an outdoor sensory lodge 10 years ago. They did recognise some faces, though, as we have a few members of staff who have been with us since we opened."

Deaths

Maria CREDE

Credé Maria. It is with sadness that we have to report the death of Maria Credé Many peoples' lives in Harlow will have been touched by Maria. In her active role with the Redeemer Lutheran Church, in her working life up to 1984 as Admin Manager at United Glass and in her many years supporting the Citizens Advice Bureau and the Friends of the Samaritans amongst other causes. Mum-of-three pocketed £4k in benefits swindle

A MOTHER-of-three who claimed more than £4,000 in benefits she was not entitled to has been given a 12-month community order.

Chelmsford Magistrates Court was told Stevi-Jade Ballard, 28, of Spinning Wheel Mead, Harlow, had failed to declare to the authorities she was living with her boyfriend. Ballard pleaded guilty to two offences of failing to promptly notify Harlow Council and the Department of Work and Pensions that her circumstances had changed between June and December last year.

Philip Pearson, prosecuting, told the court the total overpayment Ballard received in housing benefit and income support was £4,215.61.

He said she failed to declare that she was living with her partner Dean Hinton, who was in work, and she continued to claim the benefits. Kate Armstrong, representing Ballard, said initially Mr Hinton was offered a place to stay for a few nights when he lost his accommodation. It later turned into a relationship between them.

Ballard accepted she had failed to notify the authorities because she was under financial pressure. "She has outstanding debts and will have for the next 20 years," said Ms Armstrong.

Ballard was also ordered to complete 60 hours of unpaid work and pay costs of £145.

Lacey-Mae's fireworks poster is a real cracker

A YOUNGSTER showed her flair for art when her picture in a school drawing competition won the first prize of a family ticket to the Harry Potter film studios.

Five-year-old Lacey-Mae Stafford, a pupil at William Martin Infant School in Tawneys Road, Harlow, was announced the winner of the fireworks-themed competition organised by estate agents Intercounty. Lacey-Mae was presented with her prize by Intercounty lettings manager Ricci Moseley and deputy headteacher Andrew Jacobs. Her winning picture is now on display in the shop window of Intercounty's offices in Station Road, Old Harlow. Natasha Tarsey, of Intercounty, said: "We have been working closely this year with the school to raise money so it was a natural choice to continue our support with the fireworks drawing competition."

"Every entry was fantastic and had so much effort put into them. We choose Lacey-Mae as the winner because it set a perfect scene of a fireworks event from the sparklers to the sky."

Ms Moseley added: "Lacey-Mae was so happy and grateful; it was lovely to see such an excited reaction. Her mum, Vicki, said Lacey-Mae has been so excited since and keeps saying 'I can't believe I have won!'"

Scouts seek admin helpers

A SCOUT group in Harlow is looking for two volunteers to help with administration tasks.

Trevor Chappell, leader of the 1st Kingsmoor troop, said: "The roles would require keeping accounts of money coming in and recording it on a database."

"Whoever takes over will be shown how to use the database so they'll be confident and understand how it needs to be done."

"It is a very important role for the group to function smoothly."

One volunteer will work with the Beavers section on a Monday evening and the other with the Scouts section on a Friday evening.

For more information or to apply, email Steven Chappell at 1kingsmoor@gmail.com.

ADVERTORIAL

DANIEL ROBINSON & SONS

*Independent
Family Funeral Directors
Monumental Masons*

Maintaining traditionally high standards and service since 1892

Why choose an independent family funeral director?

In all forms of business today there are big national companies that have made their profits through taking over smaller firms. The funeral profession is no exception. Many businesses have changed hands but have not necessarily changed names. That makes it hard for you to distinguish between a family owned firm and the branch of a vast conglomerate. The independent funeral profession has a long and proud history of personal service to local communities. Carrying on the family tradition is a way of life for many independent funeral directors. They are deeply committed to upholding professional standards. Some of the oldest continuously operated businesses in Britain are family-owned firms. Without asking you may never know if the owners your family have trusted over the years continue to make the decisions which will affect the service you receive.

So, when you need the services of a funeral director, just ask. It's important that you know who you're speaking to.

Never be embarrassed to ask a funeral director to show you their premises or enquire about the likely costs. A reputable funeral director will be more than happy to answer any questions you may have as to whether their staff are qualified, what the fees are, if they have mortuary facilities on site, what age and what type of vehicles are available and whether there is a Chapel of Rest that you can visit at any time, twenty four hours a day, at no additional charge.

A good funeral director, like Daniel Robinson & Sons will be available 24 hours a day, 52 weeks of the year, offering an emergency service, with no calls going through to mobile phones and with free advice and counselling. All arrangements will be made on the family's behalf, either at the funeral home or in the privacy of the family's home.

A recent IPSOS Mori report highlighted in a survey of 500 towns in the UK where there was a Co-Op, Dignity & independent funeral director, that the independent funeral director offered the best value and service in every case.

Daniel Robinson & Sons, Harlow funeral home

Daniel Robinson & Sons are centrally based at Wych Elm in Harlow, close to Princess Alexandra Hospital and the offices of the Registrar. Their premises were purpose built in 1966, with two Chapels of Rest, comfortable air conditioned arrangement rooms with fine reproduction furniture and parking outside the front door. They have a large fleet of funeral vehicles, two of which were recently purchased as part of their on-going commitment to provide the highest quality and service to families.

They are all local people who know the area, the professionals that they work with, hospital and nursing home staff, doctors and the clergy; but most importantly, their staff provide a unique, knowledgeable and personal service to every family.

"We aim to be, for all the communities we serve, the people to turn to in times of bereavement; to ensure, by our wholehearted commitment, that every funeral is carried out to the highest possible standard; and to be available to offer advice, support and assistance at all times."

Memorials

Working with the leading local master masons and importers of fine stone, enables Daniel Robinson & Sons to provide families with a wide range of options for high quality memorials at the most competitive prices.

Service Sheets

They have a dedicated Service Sheet design team that provide beautiful bespoke service sheets, taking on-board the wishes of families and also offering suggestions for additional touches to the service sheets, which can make them even more of a reflection of the person whose life they celebrate.

'In Memory' profiles & donations

Daniel Robinson & Sons have a new online donation service, they can create a customised "In Memory" page on their website. This contains full details and addresses of the funeral service(s) to be held, along with the deceased's life story, a carousel of photographs the family have provided and details of the charity(s) they have chosen for donations.

The pages are permanently online for the collection period, so donors from anywhere can go to the page, look at the information and pictures and if they wish, click to add a donation using their credit or debit card. Having left a donation, each donor is encouraged to leave a condolence message for the family. Every electronic donation is automatically acknowledged via email.

In trials over 90% of donors to date have left condolence messages, which are added automatically onto the "In Memory" page. Donors have left a wide variety of messages from a few carefully chosen words to lengthy poems. At the end of the collection period, a list of all donors, their messages and the total raised for each charity(s) is sent to the family.

The most encouraging result is that over 80% of donors using the webpages are clicking to add Gift Aid to their donation. A report is then sent direct to the Charity(s) who claim the Gift Aid back from the government, boosting the total for each donation by 25%!

However, the main benefit to the donors and the charities is that, unlike most 'giving' websites, no commission is taken, the whole amount goes to the designated charity, plus the Gift Aid, where applicable. Daniel Robinson & Sons do not even charge for the administration of registering, collating and sending off donations to charities.

Pre-paid funeral plans

The reason many people take out a plan is for peace of mind for themselves and their families, by relieving them of the worry of funeral expenses and arrangements. Daniel Robinson & Sons recommend Golden Charter, the UK's largest provider of pre-paid funeral plans to provide a caring and responsible way of making arrangements, paying today's prices for the funeral of the future.

Giving back to the community

Over the last twenty years Daniel Robinson & Sons have raised nearly £1 million through fund raising activities which has been distributed to a wide range of charities and good causes. In Harlow they have supported St Clare Hospice for many years and this year they are once again supporting the Hospice's Light Up A Life services throughout Harlow and the local area.

Daniel Robinson & Sons have served generations of Harlow families, they are here today and they will be here tomorrow as a local family business, offering the highest standards of service and care.

Are you entitled to receive help with winter fuel bills?

Monthly guidance from Harlow Advice Centre

THIS month's column provides information on three schemes that may be of help if you think you are entitled to help with your winter fuel bills.

You may be entitled to a £140 discount on your electricity bill through the Warm Home Discount Scheme.

You qualify if on July 12, 2014 your supplier was part of the scheme, your name or your partner's was on the bill and you were getting the guarantee credit element of pension credit (even if you were getting savings credit as well).

If you qualify under the main scheme you should receive a letter confirming this. Contact the Warm Home Discount Team on 0345 603 9439 for further information.

Many suppliers offer the same discount to other customers, including working people on low income. For further details contact your electricity supplier.

Winter fuel payments are paid to people who were born on or before July 5, 1952. This date changes every year. The payments are tax free and do not affect other benefits, although some exclusions apply.

Harlow Advice Centre is based on the first floor of Harlow Central Library in The High. Telephone (01279) 704002 or email admin@harlowac.org.uk. Opening hours are Monday noon-2pm and Tuesday, Thursday and Friday from 10am-2pm. Out of hours appointments are available if necessary.

The payment depends on your circumstances during the qualifying week. The qualifying week this winter is September 15-21.

Ordinarily, you must be resident in Great Britain or be covered by the rules governing another European Economic Area country or Switzerland.

Payments range between £100 and £300 depending on your circumstances.

You need to claim a winter fuel payment if you've not had one before and you don't get specified benefits or a state pension.

Most people who are entitled receive a payment without making a claim. If you need to make a claim, contact the Winter Fuel Payment Centre on 08459 151515.

If you receive pension credit, income support, income-based job seekers allowance, income related employment and support allowance or universal credit, you may be entitled to a Cold Weather Payment. With the exception of pension credit, other conditions apply – mostly relating to children under the age of five or people with disabilities being part of the claim.

Payments of £25 per week are made for each seven-day period between November 1 and March 31 when the local temperature is recorded as, or forecast to be, an average of zero degrees Celsius or below over seven consecutive days.

If you are entitled you should receive a payment automatically. Contact your Jobcentre Plus Office or Pension Centre if you think you should have received a payment but it hasn't arrived.

The cost of time

HOW much would you pay for a watch? £5? £10? £50? Or do you just rely on your mobile phone?

Well, at a recent auction in Switzerland a very special timepiece called The Supercomplication sold for a whopping £13.4 million.

Of course it is no ordinary watch. It has been described by the auction firm Sotheby's as the most complicated watch built without the help of computers.

Created in 1933 for a very rich banker called Henry Graves, it took watchmaker Patek Philippe an incredible eight years to complete.

The watch is made from 24 carat gold, weighs half a kilogramme, has 900 individual pieces and boasts 24 different features. One of these is a calendar which not only tells you the date and the month but also features a star chart and keeps track of the phases of the moon.

Collectors have called it the most important watch ever made as well as one of the wonders of the world.

HEALTH CHECK

By Phil Morley, Chief Executive
Princess Alexandra Hospital NHS Trust

Help us to save lives by keeping A&E clear for REAL emergencies

I'M a big cricket fan as well as an occasional player, so I know how important team work is. And that is the reason why I am writing this column.

Your local hospital really needs your help this winter to ensure we deliver the best care possible to all our patients.

Put bluntly, that means getting the message out to your friends and family that our accident and emergency department must be kept free for life-threatening and critical emergencies only.

Every month we see around 1,800 patients in A&E who are not emergencies and who should have sought medical help elsewhere, such as from their local pharmacy or GP.

This puts a huge strain on our doctors and nurses and takes them away from dealing with real emergencies – any one of which could involve a member of your family or a close friend or neighbour.

The first port of call for non-emergencies and when your GP surgery is closed is the fantastic NHS 111 service which you can access for free from your landline or mobile by simply dialling 111.

A member of the team will assess you, provide advice and direct you to the local service that can help you best. They're available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, 365 days a year.

The NHS 111 team will book an appointment for you, if necessary, or transfer you directly to the people you need to speak to. And if an adviser thinks you need an ambulance, they'll immediately arrange for one to be sent to you.

Please spread the word about the right use of A&E this winter and ensure that patients who are real emergencies get the care they need as quickly as possible.

Hospital gives young people skills to work

GEMMA GARDNER

gemma.gardner@hertsessexnews.co.uk

FIFTEEN young people from Harlow have been given the opportunity to develop their skills and enhance their career opportunities within the NHS.

The Princess Alexandra Hospital NHS Trust is working in partnership with The Prince's Trust as part of its 'Get into Work' programme.

It provides work-ready young people aged between 16 and 25 with vocational skills and practical experience within the local NHS, giving them the opportunity to meet potential employers and find jobs within the health and social care sector.

Nick Plews, organisational development facilitator at The Prince's Trust, said: "We believe that every young person has the chance to succeed, and hopefully many of this group will be given apprenticeships.

"The scheme helps young people to be work-ready; it's about giving them the skills they need to succeed. They get intensive training and experience in a specific sector.

"This could be sport, construction, logistics, cooking, customer services - or one of many more including the NHS."

The course offers training in areas such as electronics, cleaning and employability training to help with interview skills and CV writing.

JUST THE JOB: Left to right, Nick Plews and Martin Smith with Andrew Tindale and Samuel Wangari, who have both been offered jobs at the hospital

Following this, participants spend time in the workplace in departments across the hospital gaining practical experience.

Samuel Wangari, 20, who has lived in Harlow for five years, completed the programme this month. Following a work placement where he was cleaning medical equipment, Samuel has been offered a full-time apprenticeship position with the Trust.

He said: "I've always wanted to work in the NHS. I found it hard learning all the instruments and I had a lot of questions, but I really enjoyed it."

Martin Smith, Head of Training at Princess Alexandra Hospital Trust, said: "There are so many different careers here and it's great to be able to access this untapped market of young people. It's important that we employ local people in the trust and this scheme makes that possible.

"We hope that they continue to progress."

Another scheme, again for 15 young people, will be run at the hospital early next year.

THE John Lewis ad is on TV, the Coca Cola truck is heading for Essex and The Playhouse is counting down the days to the opening night of its panto. You've guessed it - Christmas is just around the corner.

This year audiences at the Harlow theatre will be treated to the ever-popular tale of Cinderella, with former EastEnders actor Joe Swash - currently in Australia presenting I'm a Celebrity, Get Me Out of Here, Now! - starring as Buttons.

He will be joined on stage by Lauren Nevin, who earlier this year fought off the competition to take the lead role in Grease the Musical at Dublin's Gaiety Theatre, in the title role of Cinderella and James Poole as the love-struck prince.

Show director Antony Stuart-Hicks and Paul Leno will raid the costume cupboard to play the Ugly Sisters while theatre veteran Dudley Rogers will step in to the character of Baron Hard-Up, 43 years after his West End debut in Fiddler on the Roof.

"We couldn't be more excited about this production," said the director.

"We've got a superb cast, a live band, spectacular scenery and brand new costumes along with the very best of local Pauline Quirke Academies.

"It promises to be a fast paced, laugh-out-loud production of the country's most loved fairytale."

Playhouse director Scott Ramsay added:

"This year we are building on value for money with our free play area and Winter Wonderland Experience.

"We are also looking forward to welcoming customers who might not normally feel comfortable in a formal theatre setting through a relaxed performance, which will be held on Saturday, January 3."

This year's panto is supporting Harlow-based charity No Child Without.

>> Cinderella opens on Friday, December 12 and runs until Sunday, January 4, with morning, afternoon and evening performances. Ticket prices range from £9-£22. To book, call the box office on (01279) 431945 or online via www.playhouseharlow.com.

MUSIC Andy Fairweather Low returns to The Playhouse with his band The Low Riders tonight (November 20). As lead singer of 1960s band Amen Corner, he first came to prominence at the vanguard of that decade's revolution in youth culture and expression. He then had a highly successful solo career. Tonight's concert starts at 7.30pm and tickets cost £18-£21.

MUSIC Celebrating its 15th year with a new show for 2014, Beyond The Barricades is now the UK's longest running musical theatre concert. The cast of past principal performers from the West End production of Les Miserables and the 25th anniversary concert at the O2 Arena recreate original West End/Broadway musical songs from the past 15 years including Miss Saigon, Wicked, Phantom Of The Opera, West Side Story, We Will Rock You, Blood Brothers and The Jersey Boys. The show starts at 7.30pm and tickets cost £20-£23.

CHILDREN The Comedy Club 4 Kids presents cracking entertainment for everyone over six years old, with some of the best comedians from the UK and world circuit doing what they do best but without the rude bits. Saturday's show starts at 2.30pm and tickets cost £8.50.

BEVERLEY CRAVEN

MUSIC Brit Award winner Beverley Craven stops off in Harlow on Saturday as part of her UK tour. She will be performing songs from her new album Change of Heart alongside timeless classics in a show which combines witty narrative and unforgettable melodies. The show in the Studio starts at 7.30pm and tickets cost £20.50.

MILTON JONES

COMEDY Wild-haired funny man Milton Jones tops the bill for a night of laughter as Live At The Playhouse returns on Saturday with another excellent line-up of TV comedians. Also performing will be Gary Delaney, Ben Norris, Steve Hall and Dan Evans. The show starts at 8pm and tickets cost £16.

MUSIC Take a trip back in time to the 1960s when The Overtures return to Harlow for a fourth time to present two hours of fantastic music in The Bootleg Sixties, a show which has been wowing audiences in Sweden, Finland and Holland over the past 12 months. Wednesday's show starts at 7.30pm and tickets cost £18-£21.

MUSICAL The Silver Bells Christmas Show combines the music of the present with the spirit of the past. Sparkling entertainment, wonderful costumes and a spellbinding finale promise to make it an unforgettable experience. Next Thursday's matinee performance starts at 2pm and tickets cost £13.

DAVE PROWSE

TALK There's a chance to meet the man behind the mask when actor Dave Prowse - who starred as Darth Vader in the Star Wars trilogy - takes to the stage of the main auditorium next Thursday (November 27). Dave was the face of a road safety campaign in his role as the Green Cross Code Man. The show, which will feature Star Wars characters and a thrilling live battle, starts at 7.30pm and tickets cost £16.

Bold choice for teenager's debut as a director

THIS dark, disturbing play examines the catastrophic effects society can wreak on the human condition, dehumanising and degrading the spirit until death comes as the only release.

Written by German dramatist George Büchner and translated by MHP's Michael Branwell, Woyzeck centres on the eponymous soldier who is hounded and harassed by all around him.

Sam Freeman was utterly convincing as the put-upon Frank Woyzeck, displaying an impressively wide range of emotions as his life collapses around him. His review

tormentors include the clinical, psychotic Doctor who uses Frank for his experiments, the overbearing and cynical Captain who delights in humiliating him, and the salacious RSM who seduces Frank's girlfriend, Marie.

These roles were played by, respectively, Tyrone Samuels, Kerry Rowland, Dan Powell and Hazel Owen, who all delivered powerful, effective performances. Dan also took the role of Frank's cheery friend Andy, intimating that Woyzeck is unable to trust even those closest to him.

At one point the audience took part in community singing led by Marie's friend Maggie (Maisie Humphreys, in fine voice) but it's a joyless experience as a drunken street mob taunts Woyzeck.

In the end, the paranoid and despairing soldier kills Marie and commits suicide. But even then he is unable to escape persecution as a member of the raucous mob (Joan Lanario) stands cackling over his dead body.

Promenade staging brought the audience close to the action but without raked seating it was sometimes difficult to see and hear everything that was going on.

Nevertheless, 17-year-old student Harry Tension was brave and imaginative in selecting this grim and challenging work to make his directorial debut. It was a bold choice, delivered with energy and enthusiasm, and bodes well for the future of Harlow's longest-running drama group.

ART Harlow Open 14 is one of the biggest exhibitions with the widest range of artwork the town centre gallery has hosted. More than 160 exhibits created by artists from Harlow and other parts of Essex are on display in a wide variety of mediums. The exhibition runs until December 19 and entry is free.

FOR some time environmentalists and horticulturists have been urging gardeners to let their grass grow a bit longer, leave at least one area of their garden wild and create nooks and crannies in the form of log piles to allow wildlife to flourish.

Now, with the recent launch of the Government's bee and pollinator strategy – a 10-year plan announced by environment secretary Elizabeth Truss – we can do more to encourage a flower-rich habitat to provide more homes for wild honey bees, bumblebees, butterflies and other pollinators.

Scientists warn that British bees are in serious decline, with 71 of our wild bee species under threat and more than 20 already extinct. Loss of habitat and forage are the main problems facing wild bees.

The strategy is supported by the Call to Action – Bees' Needs: Food and a Home, launched earlier this year on www.beesneeds.org.uk to offer a wealth of tips on how to help these valuable creatures flourish in our gardens. Guidelines include:

- Grow more flowers, shrubs and trees that provide nectar and pollen as food for bees and other pollinators throughout the year – pussy willow, primroses and crocuses in spring, lavenders, meadow cranesbill and ox-eye daisies in summer, ivy and hebes in autumn and mahonia shrubs and cyclamen in winter.
- Leave patches of land to grow wild with plants like stinging nettles and dandelions to provide other food sources (such as leaves for caterpillars) and breeding places for butterflies and moths.
- Cut grass less often and ideally remove the cuttings to allow plants to flower.
- Avoid disturbing or destroying nesting or hibernating insects in places like grass margins, bare soil, hedgerows, trees, dead wood or walls.
- Think carefully about whether to use pesticides, especially where pollinators are active or nesting or where plants

Follow the guidelines to meet bees' needs are in flower. Consider control methods appropriate to your situation and only use pesticides if absolutely necessary.

People should understand that the beauty of a flower has nothing to do with its nectar content. Modern plant breeding has tended to value showy flowers more highly than the welfare of the insect world, so the latest double begonia or frilly carnation probably won't attract pollinators.

Double flower varieties have extra petals but produce less pollen and nectar. For example, a study comparing four varieties of dahlia found that the double 'pom-pom' and 'semi-cactus' varieties were less attractive than open-flowered varieties.

Many good nectar plants have inconspicuous flowers and often old-fashioned ones are the best, but that doesn't mean they have to be boring. Foxgloves, hellebores, wallflowers, red valerian, ice plant and Verbena bonariensis all produce loads of nectar, as do many winter-flowering heathers.

It's also important to provide good nectar sources for as much of the year as you can.

Social species like bumblebees need food for the queen bees in spring when they are founding the nest, throughout the summer for the workers to rear the young, and finally at the end of the season for the young queens to build up fat stores before hibernating for the winter.

Late-flowering, nectar-rich plants include dahlia, fuchsia (single varieties), Michaelmas daisies, marigolds, lavender and knapweeds.

Ivy is a good autumn source of nectar for a range of species including honey bees, ivy bees and hoverflies, and is the larval food plant of the holly blue butterfly.

Jobs to do in the garden this week

● Move pots of agapanthus into a cold greenhouse or frame for the winter.

● Lift and store beetroot and salsify in boxes of compost.

● Continue to plant tulips and other spring-flowering bulbs before the ground becomes too hard to work.

● Spike lawns with a hollow tined aerator and brush grit into the holes to improve drainage

● Pick off leaves that have fallen on alpine plants in the rock garden and replenish gravel mulches around them

● Collect ripe berries and fruits from shrubs, clean to remove seed and sow in pots to raise new plants

● Move ceramic pots and any which are not frost-proof into the greenhouse for winter

● Check greenhouse heaters daily, using a thermometer to ensure they are not set too high and wasting heat

● Continue to prepare the soil for planting new fruit trees and bushes

● Prune out fruited canes of grape vines when the leaves have fallen

MAKING a Christmas cake is a bit of an epic challenge, isn't it? First there's the planning, then the mixing, the months of feeding it booze, baking, making marzipan and finally the icing.

It's not surprising one in five people now buy a Christmas cake from the supermarket and pass it off as our own. Less than half of us make the effort to bake our own cake because we just don't think we're capable.

We might love a bit of Bake Off and attempt the odd batch of biscuits here and there, but a Christmas cake is serious business, right? Wrong. And Rachel Allen is here to prove it.

Not only can her delicious cake be made on Christmas Eve but it's so easy she reckons each and every one of us can bake it.

She insists this cake is easier than making a Victoria sponge. "It doesn't need to rise," she says, "you just bung everything in together and bake it."

"I like to include lots of other dried fruit, rather than just raisins, sultanas and currants but feel free to play around with that. I love the toffee flavour of dates and crystallized ginger with the sugar on."

And as for feeding the cake with alcohol, as long as the fruit's soaked for at least two hours that's more than enough. If you do have time you can leave it to get sozzled for a couple of days.

Christmas cakes obviously take a while to cook but once all the ingredients are combined, Rachel pops it into the oven and gets to work on the icing.

This isn't your traditional Christmas cake. It's iced with an almond paste which, says Rachel, "is a bit like marzipan but so much nicer".

Getting the paste to come together is a bit of an effort and you may feel you want to add more water (or brandy) but keep at it and it will probably be fine. Tip the last

Easy does it with Rachel's cake recipe

RACHEL ALLEN'S CHRISTMAS CAKE WITH TOASTED ALMOND PASTE

150g sultanas
150g raisins
110g chopped dried cranberries
110g chopped candied peel
110g chopped dates
110g chopped dried apricots
50g finely chopped crystallized ginger
150ml brandy or whiskey
275g butter, softened
275g light muscovado or soft light brown sugar
5 eggs
Finely grated orange rind from 1 orange
50g ground almonds
275g flour
2tsp mixed spice

For the almond paste
50g ground almonds
450g caster sugar
1 large or 2 small eggs
2tbsp brandy or whiskey
A couple of drops of almond essence

To brush on the cake
1 small egg white, lightly beaten
2 egg yolks

Preheat the oven to 150C/135 fan/300F/gas mark 2. Line the base of a 23-inch non-stick cake tin and butter the sides. You can also put parchment paper around the outside of the tin to stop the cake drying out in the oven.

Place the sultanas, raisins, dried cranberries, chopped candied peel, dates, dried apricots and the crystallized ginger in a bowl. Pour on the whiskey or brandy and allow to soak for at least two hours.

In a large mixing bowl, cream the butter very well. Add in the sugar and beat well, and then beat in the eggs one by one. Stir in the grated orange zest and ground almonds, sift in the flour and spices and fold in gently, followed by the fruit and any

Transfer into the prepared cake tin and bake for between two-and-a-half to three-and-a-quarter hours. A skewer inserted into the centre of the cake will come out clean when the cake is cooked.

Pour another tablespoon or two of whiskey or brandy over the top of the cake as soon as it comes out of the oven. Cover the cake, still in the tin, with foil to keep the top of the cake nice and soft while it's cooling. Once the cake has cooled, remove it from the tin and cover again in tin foil, until you're ready to cover it with almond paste.

To make the paste preheat the oven to 220C/425F/gas mark 7. Mix the ground almonds and sugar together in a bowl. In another bowl, beat the eggs, add the brandy or whiskey and a couple of drops of almond essence, then add to the dry ingredients and mix to a stiff paste.

Sprinkle the worktop with icing sugar, turn out the almond paste and work lightly until smooth.

Remove all tin foil and greaseproof paper from the cake. Take about half of the almond paste and place it on a worktop that has been dusted with icing sugar. Roll until it is about 1cm thick.

Paint the top of the cake with the lightly-beaten egg white and put the cake, sticky side down, onto the almond paste. Cut around the edge of the cake, then carefully turn the cake the right side up with the lid of almond paste attached to the top.

Measure the circumference and height of the cake. Roll out two long strips of almond paste (to the length of the circumference) and trim both edges to the height of the cake with a palette knife. Paint both the cake and the almond paste lightly with egg white. Press the strip against the sides of the cake – do not overlap or there will be a bulge. Use a straight-sided water glass to even the edges and smooth the join. Rub the cake well with your hand (or cake smoother or palette knife) to ensure a nice flat surface.

At this stage, place the cake on a baking tray. Roll out the remainder of the almond paste to approximately 5mm thick and cut out star, heart, holly or Santa shapes. Paint the whole surface of the cake with some beaten egg yolk and stick the shapes on top and around the sides. Brush the shapes with egg yolk.

Bake the cake in the centre of a preheated oven for 10-20 minutes until lovely and golden. Remove from the oven, allow to cool and then transfer to a plate.

drop of egg in and that will probably do it," she says.

Once the icing's on the cake, go to town on it with a flat-edge cake smoother or a palette knife and it will transform into a thing of beauty, working perfectly, but stick at it. The smoothing part is actually enormously addictive and very therapeutic, so it's good for getting rid of that festive stress.

Once you're done – Rachel recommends rolling a glass around the sides to ensure there are no gaps between the cake and the icing – all that's left to do is add a few decorative shapes from the leftover paste, cover it in egg wash and bake it for 20 minutes.

And there you have it – the easiest Christmas cake you could ever make.

THE HUNGER GAMES: MOCKINGJAY – PART 1 (12A, 123 mins)

Beginning of the end in a Game of two halves

THE spectre of war casts a long shadow over the penultimate chapter of the blockbusting dystopian thrillers based on Suzanne Collins' bestselling trilogy.

The Hunger Games: Mockingjay - Part 1 follows the lead of the Harry Potter and Twilight sagas by cleaving the final book in two, a decision driven as much by greed as artistic necessity. The result is a dark, brooding two hours of self-sacrifice almost completely devoid of the propulsive action sequences that distinguished the earlier films.

Jennifer Lawrence's portrayal of reluctant heroine Katniss Everdeen, a pawn in the battle of wits between the money-rich Capitol and the impoverished Districts, remains a mesmerising constant.

She delivers another emotionally bruising performance, especially in early scenes when her battle-scarred teenager stares over the smouldering ruins of her beloved District 12, littered with charred skeletons of friends and neighbours who were incinerated as they fled.

The floodgates open and screenwriters Peter Craig and Danny Strong take their time channelling her aching sense of loss into an all-consuming rage that will set the Capitol ablaze this time next year.

Katniss, having barely survived the Third Quarter Quell and now separated from fellow tributes Peeta (Josh Hutcherson) and Johanna (Jena Malone), gathers her strength in a secret underground complex.

Her allies include childhood friend Gale Hawthorne (Liam Hemsworth), mentor Haymitch Abernathy (Woody Harrelson), chaperone Effie Trinket (Elizabeth Banks), architect of the rebellion Plutarch Heavensbee (Philip Seymour Hoffman) and District 13 president Alma Coin (Julianne Moore).

The people of the Districts look to Katniss to lead them against President Snow and the armed forces of Panem.

Meanwhile, Snow initiates his own forceful media campaign fronted by Caesar Flickerman (Stanley Tucci) and a clearly disoriented Peeta.

The Hunger Games: Mockingjay - Part 1 is the calm before the storm of full-blown conflict. It's a slower burn than previous films and lacks some of the on-screen electricity since Katniss and Peeta are separated, but Lawrence burns bright as the eponymous girl on fire.

Effie's role is expanded from the book to bring some comic relief to the subterranean gloom, but as Part 1 makes abundantly and agonisingly clear, you have to sacrifice innocent lives to sweep away the past.

Agent Geoffrey Matthew Estates, 47 High Street, Old Harlow. Telephone (01279) 444988

BELIEVED to date back to the 17th century, this superb detached cottage in the heart of the village of Sheering was renovated from a thatch to a pegg-tiled roof in 1956.

It has been modernised throughout by the current owners and now has a spacious lounge/dining room, a further reception room and a galley-style kitchen overlooking the rear garden.

The entrance hallway has plenty of character with stone flooring and exposed brickwork.

The L-shaped galley kitchen features a range of modern units with tiled brick splashbacks, an Aga and a grill/hob/oven.

The dining room also has original features including exposed beams and an open fireplace with hearth and wooden surround. There is another open fireplace in the lounge.

At the rear of the property are a mature garden with flower and shrub borders. The remainder is laid to lawn and enclosed by panel fencing.

To the front there is an in-out driveway and off-street parking for up to five cars.

ALTHOUGH we have been expecting the Bank of England to announce a rise in the base rate for a while, it now looks as if it won't be until the tail end of 2015.

The Bank has forecast that in order to avoid damaging the economy, any increases in the cost of borrowing will be in small jumps of just 0.25 percentage points and these will be spread over a period of several years, reaching 3.25 per cent by 2018.

The last time there was a rate rise was more than seven years ago, so it may seem a little disconcerting at first. However, it is worth remembering that back in the 1980s borrowers survived far larger increases in mortgage rates.

The good news is that with inflation falling, pay rises low and a housing bubble averted there is very little inflationary pressure on interest rates, meaning those rates could rise even more slowly.

The lenders' trade body, the Council of Mortgage Lenders, has published a ready reckoner on its website looking at the effect of a 0.25 per cent rise in mortgage rates. You can adjust it to alter the effect of other increases, depending on the size of loan and the time left to repay it.

It shows, for instance, that someone with 20 years to repay £250,000 would need to find just £33 a month extra if their rate increased from 3.22 per cent (the current average mortgage rate being paid by borrowers) to 3.47 per cent. That would take their monthly payments from £1,429 to £1,462.

Clearly that is just a single baby step but it does put it into some kind of perspective.

Taking steps in advance to work out what the effect on your payments might be, and planning ahead, will mean that most borrowers will be able to cope by careful budgeting.

'A Winter's Sale?'

There are many reasons why people put off selling their property at this time of year in the belief that there could be a better time to do it: it's too cold, it's too wet, it's too dark, the house is not looking its best, school holidays, Christmas, New Year, etc. At this time of the year many people say they will wait until the spring before putting their home on the market, as that is supposedly the best time to sell.

Whilst properties certainly look more appealing in the spring, there are solid reasons for bringing your property to market during the winter. Firstly, whilst you can choose when you sell, a buyer's timing is usually more likely to be determined by circumstances rather than the season. Serious buyers won't let Christmas deter them.

Secondly, many properties come onto the market in the spring thereby increasing supply, meaning buyers have more choice which also puts them in a stronger bargaining position.

It also means that, by the time a buyer is found, you will be able to take advantage of this increase in supply yourself as you seek a new home. Having a buyer for your own property ahead of everyone else puts you in a strong position as a purchaser, with a selection of properties from which to choose in a market of buyers who have otherwise yet to sell.

This time of year usually produces a sharp increase in the supply of qualified buyers who want to conclude a sale by Christmas - and often at top prices too.

So why wait when you can take advantage of today's market? If you are contemplating moving, please phone us on 01279 418888 to discuss how our marketing plan could have you sold by Christmas. Your timing might just be perfect.

End of the road for your vehicle?

Responsible drivers scrap their vehicles at an Authorised Treatment Facility (ATF).

Because only an ATF can legally scrap a vehicle.
That means any pollutants will be made safe before it's recycled in an environmentally friendly way.

What's more, for certain types of vehicle you'll get a DVLA approved Certificate of Destruction (CoD).
A CoD proves that the ATF has told DVLA your vehicle has been scrapped and so is no longer
your responsibility. www.direct.gov.uk/motoring

Complete with cable to connect to phone socket for Fax. It has a USB connection lead, and is complete with all software CDs and instructions as a standalone machine it doesn't have built-in wireless, but...also have a wireless print server (Belkin) that I used to use with it, until my new M58 laptop arrived, and the print server wouldn't work with it, unlike Vista, XP etc...you can have this as well for £5. BY ALAN SCOTT

HARLOW Shotokan Karate Club took part in the SKE Championships held at the Leisurezone.

The large event attracted around 200 contestants from London, Essex and Hertfordshire.

Events comprised of kumite (basic sparring, up to free fighting) and kata (set forms), and included individual and team entries.

A very successful day for the Harlow team resulted in a total of five gold, six silver and 10 bronze medals, with some competitors facing their team-mates in the finals.

Harlow's Sara Lopes, in her first competition, gained gold in the 10-11 years three step sparring event, and followed this up with silver in the 10-11 years white to red belt kata.

Michael Cole, again in his first competition, came up against team-mate Greig Williamson in the final of the adult three step sparring event.

The gold went to Cole, with Williamson forced to settle for silver.

Cole followed this up with silver in the adult white to red kata.

Emily Thorpe and Tarren Arnold met in the women's brown and black belt kata finals.

Thorpe gained gold, with Arnold earning bronze.

Thorpe also made it to the final of the women's freefighting event, where she took the fight to her opponent, but was narrowly beaten into second place.

Sam Delamotte was third in this category.

She then teamed up with Arnold and Joe Mortimer (Harlow A) to win the brown and black team kata event, HARLOW are five points clear at the top in division four of the Essex Women's Hockey League.

They crushed Brentwood's fifth team 5-1 away in their latest victory, maintaining their winning and unbeaten run.

Sarah Donaghey opened the scoring.

However, the hosts levelled just minutes after the restart.

Stung, Emily Taylor rifled home to put Harlow back ahead.

Sarah French-Laskowski made it 3-1 in the last 10 minutes.

Tracy Taylor netted Harlow's fourth goal soon after.

A final short corner to Harlow saw Dearman net the fifth and final goal.

Meanwhile, Harlow were edged out in a five-goal thriller away to East Men's Hockey League rivals Waltham Forest thirds.

Andy Boughtwood and Benn Hagger replied for the visitors.

Harlow are sixth in the table, but only four points behind Witham thirds, who are occupying the second promotion spot.

In the Essex Women's Hockey League, premier division Harlow climbed out of the bottom three with a tremendous 3-1 victory against Brentwood seconds.

Pat delivers top gongs at Town presentation night

HE might have been up against two players from the successful Saffron Walden team of a few years back, but there was certainly no surprise that wicket-keeper Pat Yates picked up the top gongs at Harlow Town Cricket Club's annual presentation night.

Both former Hertfordshire county star Neil Gladwin and Joe Holland had excelled in their first season at the Elizabeth Way club.

They helped the team to promotion to division two, revelling in a side led magnificently by skipper Ashley Alderson.

But it was Yates who took the plaudits after a marvellous season behind the stumps.

Speaking at the club's presentation night at Hunters Reach restaurant in Hatfield Heath, chairman Stuart Alderson said: "Pat contributed much with the bat and arguably even more with the gloves, 14 stumpings and 12 catches and was without doubt the best 'keeper in the league.

"At times this year his performance on the pitch has been as good as I have ever seen at this level, particularly his leg side work off the quicker bowlers.

"A brilliant year for Pat and no question he deserves the first XI Player of the Year award."

Town just missed out on the title on the final day of the season, in a gripping campaign which went to the wire with three teams chasing promotion on the last day.

Yates also won the Martin Gladwin Fielding Trophy.

YATES' WIN LODGE: Pat Yates collects an award from Harlow Town Cricket Club chairman Stuart Alderson (s)

Chairman Alderson added: "Pat has had an outstanding season, and fully deserves all the accolades and plaudits he has received.

"His enthusiasm for the game and desire to improve makes him a real valued member of the club."

The second XI Player of the Year award went to Dan Baldwin.

He scored 315 runs as the team went through the campaign with an unbeaten record.

The third XI Player of the Year award went to Johan Cloete. He hit an astonishing 471 runs during the season, helping the team to the title, and this was officially presented on the night.

After hitting 471 runs and taking 25 wickets for the fourth team, Paul Smith picked up the Player of the Year accolade.

The Brian Teale Clubman of the Year Trophy went to Lee Richardson, manager of the girls team, Harlow Tornados, for his hard work (see report below).

Charlie Coleman picked up the Gary Terry Cup, for the club's highest run scorer of the season, for the fourth time in six years.

He notched 876 runs at an average of 38, having scored four 50s and three 100s and produced a top score of 120.

Alderson paid tribute to arguably the greatest year in the club's history, with three teams achieving promotion.

He says the future is bright for the Shepherd Neame Essex League club. "We have some very promising youngsters coming through," he said. "It would be good to see all teams challenging for promotion again next year, I think we have the capability to do so but we will be coming up against a lot of sides we have not played for many years.

"We are keen to maintain the community base of the club and our long term strategy of a sustainable high level of league cricket remains rooted in our ability to bring on the juniors and our ability to attract very good local players who see our club as the place to play."

Other awards: U16s Player of the Year – Jake Messenger; President's Trophy – Aaron Simpson; John Drewett Cup – Simon Rowell (50 wickets, average of 10.4/season best of 7-45); Arnie Gajraj All Rounder Shield – Ramya Upadhyay (36 wickets at an average of 15.47, best of 5-56, 564 runs at 56.4, a top score of 80 and, plus eight catches and two run outs).

Colts produce superb display to beat Datchworth

HARLOW Colts put in a superb display to beat Datchworth 17-7 in a friendly on Saturday.

The Young Rams produced an excellent display of committed fast-flowing attacking rugby with stand-out performances from hooker Mitchell Hodgkinson and inside centre Ral Onyema's, who scored two tries.

Alfie Clark also bagged himself a try along with one conversion in a decent display by the youngsters to rush into a 17-0 lead before Datchworth earned a consolation try.

The U9 minis were split into two teams to play South Woodham Ferrers and Thurrock at the weekend.

The 'A' team beat Ferrers 5-3 but lost to Thurrock 5-4 in a close match.

The 'B' team lost both of their matches, however, being defeated 6-0 and 3-0 to Thurrock and Ferrers respectively.

The two Rams' teams then came together and took on Ferrers one last time, winning a hard-fought game on the soft turf 1-0.

The youngsters put in a tremendous defensive effort to claim the victory, as their tackling improved throughout the day.

Harlow Ladies enjoyed a convincing 41-0 victory over Maidenhead on Sunday.

They have a weekend off now and will be back in league action when they welcome Chesham to Ram Gorse on November 30.

Tornados breeze on as girls make progress

THE aptly named new girls team Tornados from Harlow Town Cricket Club are making their mark in the U16 girls Essex Indoor League.

Tornados registered an excellent win in their second match when they beat Hutton convincingly at the Indoor Cricket Centre in Chelmsford.

Hutton were bowled out for 34 before the team from the Elizabeth Way-based club knocked off the target for the loss of one wicket.

This followed Harlow Town losing to last year's winners Harold Wood off the last ball in their first game.

Town's manager Lee Richardson (39) is thrilled about how the team is going following a promising summer during which a squad of 13 girls between the ages of seven and 16 was built up.

Friendlies were played and the girls section is set to play its part in a sport that, like rugby, is losing its male dominance.

Richardson said: "We have played two games, won one and lost one. It is a girls U16 league, and we have a very young side. Our win was against the second best team.

"The majority of it is trying to build the profile. The girls' cricket in the town is new and it is about building a profile to bring girls into the club."

He added: "We had primary school cricket competitions for schools in Harlow at the club in the summer.

"We have come a long way in the last 12 months. Paul Morrell has been trying at the club in the last couple of years to start women's and girls' cricket at the club.

"There has been nothing in this part of West Essex, whereas in places like Chelmsford there are a multitude of girls' sides." Richardson's daughter

TOP TEAM: Some of the Tornados team (s)

Isabelle and three other Harlow Town Cricket Club girls, Matilda Prince, Susannah Cavatina and Harper Cubism, played in the Essex U11 side in the summer which won eight of its nine games.

For next season, Harper, Susannah and Matilda have been selected for the Essex U13 squad and Isabelle Richardson has another season in the Essex U11 squad.

Town's Francesca Cavatina is in the U15s at Essex.

Richardson's work at getting girls' cricket off the ground at Harlow Town CC was recognised at Town's annual presentation evening.

The event was held at the Hunters Meet restaurant in Hatfield Heath and Richardson was given the Clubman of the Year award.

He was given a big ovation when he went to pick up the prize.

Richardson added: "I was overwhelmed. It was totally unexpected. It is an honour to be considered for it but I don't do it to get an award."

Rimmer calls time after 17 years with the Star

BY ALAN SCOTT

alan.scott@hertsessexnews.co.uk

STAR sports reporter David Rimmer has left the newspaper after 17 years.

Rimmer first came to Herts & Essex Newspapers as a freelancer when his predecessor Richard White fell ill and then was forced to step down, and he was taken on full-time.

Rimmer quickly became a familiar site to the sports clubs around Harlow and Bishop's Stortford.

He made many trips to Harlow Town's old ground at the Sportcentre, and always said former Hawks Marc Salmon was the best player he had watched live, covering hundreds upon hundreds of non-league games.

Salmon was a supremely skilful and classy attacking player at the club in the late 1990s and early 2000s, and scored goals aplenty.

It was back in Eddie McClusky's reign as Harlow Town FC manager around the 1998-99 season that Rimmer earned the nickname 'Didcot Dave'.

This was after accompanying the Harlow Town team to Didcot for a football match.

He was in typical faithful Labrador mode as he tried to retrieve the ball after it had been kicked out into touch, by leaping over a fence.

However, he somehow managed to rip his coat in half and the now coatless Rimmer froze on the coach ride back.

But, several months later the Harlow players had a whip round to pay for a new coat. They must have felt guilty.

He was also the target of a prank when he was invited to attend a Harlow Town FC training session – and had Rallex or something similar added to his shorts.

He has always blamed former Harlow and Bishop's Stortford player Lee Claridge for this. Alas we will never know the truth.

They also call him Jonah at Harlow as they seem to lose every time he watches them.

Rimmer and I went to the old ground to present Neil Moore with a special cake to mark his 500th Hawks appearance a few years ago.

END OF AN ERA: David Rimmer, seen here interviewing Lord Falconer, has stepped down after 17 years as a reporter with the Star

We arranged for our photographer to be there, and it was with great amusement when I later saw the photos only to see Rimmer had a look of complete terror on his face. He looked like a serial killer. I said 'couldn't you have smiled?'.

That's no reflection on 'Mooro' as we were both delighted he had reached this milestone. David just didn't feel too comfortable I guess.

Although my favourite memory of Rimmer is when he was interviewing a player at Harlow Town and the son of former chairman Jeff Bothwell butted into this interview and started speaking. Rimmer was having none of this and just put his palm up towards the lad's face in a 'stop' action.

He said nothing, but then turned and carried on his interview. Bothwell's son walked away disconsolately.

And Rimmer's jaw dropped open when he was asked if West Indies legend Desmond Haynes could sit next to him at Harlow Town Cricket Club's Lashings match in the summer.

Although he loved most sports, cricket was always his number one obsession.

Readers of the sports pages will be all too aware of his treks to far away grounds.

In fact, for one Bishop's Stortford FC match at Blyth Spartans near Newcastle he actually left on the Friday night, and returned on the early hours of the following Sunday.

His reason – he wanted to save the company money by getting a cheap coach, but the only one coming back was a sleeper so he left at 11pm on Saturday evening.

He returned to his Hertford home at about 8am – a very long couple of days indeed.

All that way and Stortford didn't even win!

He did get some words of thanks from the then Blues manager, former Tottenham and England goalkeeper Ian Walker.

That season, when the Blues were playing in the Conference North division facing cash-crippling trips, Rimmer also went to Workington – he was determined to make the journey for Stortford's furthest ever trip to play a league match.

Rimmer would often go and see a player in hospital if they had broken a leg or such like, and I'm sure this is why he is held in such high regard by so many people in the areas he covered.

He has received ties and coats from some of the sports clubs he has reported on, in recognition of his coverage.

Away day blues continue for depleted Rams

Beccles 20
Harlow 13
(RFU London division three north east)

IF the Rams could improve their away form they could certainly be title contenders this season. Having said that most of the teams in division three north east would probably say this is a thorn in their sides.

For Harlow, a four-hour round trip up to Suffolk made for a gruelling day against mid-table opposition who had never lost at home to the Essex men.

Despite this, the Rams battled on to the end and their reward was a bonus point for losing by seven points or less.

The result saw Harlow slip to fourth.

With a number of regulars unavailable and heavy traffic leaving Harlow with just 20 minutes to warm up, they were on the back foot from the start.

Despite this, the two teams appeared to be evenly matched and Harlow took an early lead through a James McFerran penalty after the Beccles inside-centre missed a kick at goal.

In wet conditions, Harlow were punished by the Beccles back three, with the right winger running through unopposed for an unconverted try after 18 minutes.

A lack of communication again cost Harlow as the home left winger found himself in acres of space to score another unconverted try.

Stung, Harlow hit back and when pressure from McFerran resulted in the Beccles full-back dropping the ball over the line, Rob Mackie was on hand to touch down for Harlow's first try of the match.

With the conversion missed, Beccles led 10-8.

The home side scored their third try when their outside-centre drew the last defender before putting away a team-mate to score in the corner. Again the conversion was missed.

The second half started evenly but Beccles added a fourth score, a push over try, on the hour following a series of driving mauls.

Kerry Palmer went desperately close to scoring a second try for Harlow, before they finally touched down in injury-time.

This was a well-worked team try, with forwards and backs combining through 15 phases of play, before a cross-field kick from Barney Goodey allowed McFerran to score an unconverted try.

Harlow host third-placed Lowestoft & Yarmouth this Saturday.

HARLOW: Ephgrave, M. Bowering, Stonehouse, Unwin, Palmer (Ellis), Twiner, Roberts, Claridge, Woodington, Goodey, Drake, L. Bowering, Brown, McFerran, Mackie.

Bowen's 'top dog' in Rockets' new line-up

Harlow Flyer's key role as speedway team rebuilt for 2015

RYE House Rockets promoter Len Silver believes he has assembled a side capable of finishing top of the Premier League.

Former Mark Hall School student Luke Bowen will add experience to the line-up assembled by the boss of the Hoddesdon speedway club, who has hailed the Harlow Flyer as 'the top dog'.

Bowen enjoyed a deserved testimonial campaign in 2014 and stayed injury free.

He could well see double duty in 2015 as he is also set to lead the Raiders into National League action should the club's application be accepted at that league's annual meeting on December 9.

"Luke's very excited at the prospect of doubling up," said Silver.

"He hasn't ridden in the National League for many years. He's going to have many more meetings and I'm sure it will make him feel like a top dog."

The Rockets have signed two highly-rated Denmark riders.

Kasper Lykke will be making his return to the Rockets after Silver dropped him at the end of the 2013 campaign, and he will be joined by fellow Dane Nikolaj Busk Jakobsen, who will make his debut in this country on an assessed 7.00 average.

The 20-year-old has reached the last three World U-21 Final series.

Steve Boxall will return, while Bowen takes up the other reserve slot alongside Lykke.

Former World Cup star Edward Kennett, Jason Garrity and – subject to visa approval – Aussie Tyson Nelson are also in the team.

Rockets had a miserable season in 2014, finishing bottom of the Premier League, and Silver hopes to transform his team's fortunes with the arrival of Jakobsen.

KEY MAN: Luke Bowen, seen here in action at his testimonial at the Hoddesdon track last season, will be one of Rye House Rockets' most experienced performers in 2015 (Photo by Ian Bush)

"Nikolaj arrives with strong recommendations as one of Denmark's brightest new talents, and his record at U-21 level speaks for itself," he said.

"I believe this team to be one of the best we have put to the track since our last League-winning seven of 2007, and I am happy to report that every single rider agreed to join the Rockets almost before I had posed the question.

"Edward Kennett will be proud to lead this septet as captain, and I am proud to present them."

Bowen's reserve partner Lykke made solid progress last season in a loan deal with Glasgow.

Rockets will open their home campaign on Saturday March 28, with the opposition to be decided.

They have drawn Workington in the first round of the Premier League Knockout Cup over two legs (date to be fixed).

Defenders set to return for Hawks

CENTRAL defenders Dave Kendall and Warren Goodhind are closing in on returns for Harlow Town, as they host struggling Romford this Saturday.

Kendall has been out with a hamstring injury, while Goodhind picked up a knock and missed out in the 2-1 win against Needham.

However, the pair will do well to dislodge Josh

Urquhart and Southend loan star Dan Matsuzaka, who shone against the Suffolk side.

Harlow find themselves five points behind leaders Needham, but have three games in hand.

The Hawks went out of a second cup in the space of five days as they lost 4-1 in the Ryman League Cup away to premier side Hampton & Richmond on Saturday.

Harlow had lost in the Essex Senior Cup against Billericay.

The Hawks went ahead at Hampton when Jared Small collected a Dave Cowley cross six yards out, then showed great composure to take a touch before firing past the Hampton keeper on 27 minutes.

The Londoners hit back and a Duncan Culley free-kick from the edge of the area curled over the wall and just under the bar on 37 minutes.

The hosts then went in front on 49 minutes, as Culley grabbed his second goal after a mix-up between Hawks keeper Ed Thompson and defender Ben Glasgow.

It was 3-1 on 79 minutes when Jerome Federico netted a superb goal, and sub Ben Harris added a fourth on 90 minutes.
